

DAY ELEVEN: December 5th Widows and Property

Some traditional cultures do not easily concede recognition of a widow's human rights. In practice, especially in some rural areas, it is still widely assumed that only men should own or inherit land, that widowhood terminates a woman's social legitimacy.

Michelle's Story

When Michelle, 57, was widowed in 2012, she lost more than her husband. Shortly after his death, her in-laws took over the fields she had tilled for decades. They also stole fruit from the trees in her kitchen garden and sold the harvest, leaving her without any livelihood. They further intimidated and insulted her by surrounding her and attempting to chase her away.

Michelle's neighbours advised her that the Legal Resources Foundation could help her to protect her inheritance. When this legal aid organisation took the matter to court and Michelle obtained restraining orders against her in-laws, she was able to go back to tilling her fields. But her in-laws continue to threaten her, so she still worries about the future: "I am fearful and my heart is unsettled."
